Not only equals but EXCELS the best Imported Brandies in purity and flavor. It is in fact the best BRANDY KNOWN. This statement is fully corroborated by the certificates of our most distinguished analytical chemists. The want of PURB BRANDY has long been felt in this country, and the introduction of an article of such quality as to supersede the sale and use of those vile compounds hitherto sold under the name of Brandy, can only be regarded a great public good. The CATAWBA BRANDY possesses all the good qualities claimed for the best Imported Liquors, and is of perfect purity and superior flavor, and a sovereign and sure remedy for Dyspepsia, Flattlency, Cramp, Colic, Languor, Low Spirits, General Debility, &c. In 1791 the houses clustered thickly around the Battery, which was then what the Fifth avenue is in our days, the place of residence of the wealthy and fashionable. The Governor's house stood opposite the Bowling Green, the name of the pleasure ground where the sturdy Dutch played at bowls and skittles, and where on pleasant evenings their buxom wives and rustic bells injured the merry revel; while the old Governor ant evenings their buxom wives and rustic bells joined the merry revel; while the old Governor, smoking his long Dutch clay pipe, watched from his window, with a species of phlegmatic diplomacy, the movements of the people, taking care that nothing seditious should be going on. Those were happy days for the Dutch; the Irish still remained in Ireland, and Yankees had not yet it all his own way in 1791, and a quaint, old fashioned way it was. But after 1791 these dreams were gradually broken up.

At that time the buildings beyond Trinity Church, as far as St. Paul's Chapel, were not thickly placed, and it required but little time to get from thence to the broad, free country, the rural aspect of the street being diversified by gardens, fields, orchards and swamps, with here and there a public house. But hardly fifty years passed by, and Jan has become obsolete. His pr Knickerbockers, as they are called, speck in the ocean to the mass of Irish, Yankee, German, English and miscellaneous nationalities which, like so many avalanches, have burst upon Broadway, built houses, stores, hotels, theaters saloons, museums, upon the fields, orchards and swamps of 1791, until, in 1848, the old Heere straat looks already like a combination of the London Strand and the Paris Boulevard Bonne Nouvelle. From 1848 to this day Broadway has again been completely transformed. Hardly one of the landmarks of fifteen years ago remain. With the exception of the Astor House, the Hospital with its green, St. Paul's, the City Hall, Stayvesant Institution, and one or two more antiquities, there is a change of houses perceptible in every block. The increase of business was such that trade encroached everywhere, until at this day, excepting a number of private dwelling-houses beyond Prince street, the whole of Broadway has become a vast gallery of stores, theaters, alons and hotels, while churches, with the exception of Trinity and St. Paul's, and private residences, have all been removed to the apper part With the exception of the Astor House, the Hos dences, have all been removed to the upper part of the town. Those which have not yet been renoved are in a fair way to be. Trinity and St. Paul's churches are well nigh deserted, and the Tabernacle, the old spot so endeared to reform-rabernacie, the old spot so endeared to reformers, is no more.

The aspect of Broadway in 1858 presents many striking features, with elements so mixed in character, that no comparison with the great thoroughfares of European capitals could convey a correct idea of it. Early in the moraing the street begins to fill with carts and vehicles, bring-ing supplies from the country to the market. From all the by streets which connect Broadway ing supplies from the country to the market. From all the by streets which connect Broadway with the rivers, crowds of men and women, and wagons, and horses, emerge from the Brooklyn, Hoboken, Williamsburg, Staten Island, and New Jersey ferries. It is still very early in the morning; the shops are still closed; only here and there an omnibus makes its reluctant appearance, its horses and driver not having yet shaken off the aloth of the night. There are also some carriages stopping before the Astor House, St. Nicholas, Metropolitan, and other hotels, with a load of travelers just coming in from East, North, and West, or from European and California steamers. At this early hour Broadway looks thoroughly respectable; like a big ball-room, which, after the revel of the evening, is used by the lady of the house for thrifty purposes. But as the morning advances traffic increases. The ferries disgorge their human cargoes. The sidewalks begin to swarm with women and men employed in business. Newsboys appear upon the scene of action. Omnibuses begin to rattle, the rush of emigrants sets in. Spruce clerks appear at the corners of Prince, Canst and White streets; however limited their means, here they are, halling the omnibuses, fresh, rosy and well dressed. Trades people of all nationalities crowd the vehicle.

French and German dry goods jobbers, Bremen merchants, Jew financiers, Southern, Eastern and Western speculators and peculators, auctioneers, men of straw and men of substance. New York, gers, literateurs, clergymen and artists mingle with the crowd.

Some ladies make their appearance. If the weather is fine, ladies continue to increase in numbers as the day advances. The lady-element of Broadway is one of its most dazzling features. This lady-element is rather of a mixed character. There is always a small sprinkling of lady-like woman shopping, or taking an airing, or employed in honorable labor; but there are a considerable number whose character does not bear much esthetical analysis; and, also, in Broadway, as in Regent street and on the Boulevards, a great num-ber of undomesticated ladies not necessarily of doubtful character, but ladies unattached, whose affections have been crossed, and whose aspira-tions are blighted, and upon whose bleeding hearts the excitement of Broadway acts as a sedative. This floating population is swelled by many female day dreamers, lounging women or she loafers, whose hopeless vacancy of mind calls many female day dreamers, lounging women or she loafers, whose hopeless vacancy of mind calls for the stimulant of the noise, the shops, the dust, the variety of faces, of the hissing, seething street. There is something there to lure them away from the monotony of their aimless life, and gradually they are fascinated by Broadway.

They can not live without it. They became part and parcel of Broadway. They dress for it, as if to flirt with its pavement. There are female faces which haunt Broadway for a whole generation. The stranger who has seen such a face, with a Broadway flush at the beginning of the nineteenth century, may chance to meet the same face again with Broadway wrinkles, toward the middle of the same century.

Toward mid day Broadway has lost altogether its Ludgate-hill and Cheapside character. In the fine autumnal days it partakes of the dazzling fea-tures of the Boulevards of Paris, of the volcanic tures of the Boulevards of Paris, of the volcanic turnoil of the Strada Toledo of Naples, of the leisurely aspect of the Hamburgh Maiden Lane leisurely aspect of the Hamburgh Maiden Lane (of the tornado rush on Citizan.)

its Monday's issue. To show the dirty dog, "Smith—Ah, that's it! (Laughter and cheering, in which Brother Austin drew down his head behind the benches.) You would have me join the dirty dog, "Smith—Ah, that's it! (Laughter and cheering, in which Brother Austin drew down his head behind the benches.) You would have me join the dirty dog, "Smith—Ah, that's it! (Laughter and cheering, in which Brother Austin drew down his head behind the benches.) You would have me join the dirty dog, "Smith—Ah, that's it! (Laughter and cheering, in which Brother Austin drew down his head behind the benches.) and the Berlin Linden, of the tornado rush on the London strand, and of the elegance of Pictor the Republicans of Indiana: cadilly. But Broadway partakes, on such occa-sions, of all the elements indicated, without coming specifically under any class. While up town is rushing down town, and in the afternoon when the reflux teward home sets in, the street has a London Fleet street and Cornhill look, while the sidewalks resemble rather the avenues of Paris, Brussels and Hamburgh. At times, the mixture of races, of German, Irish, French, English, Scotch, Scandinavians, Poles, Hungarians, Ital-ians, Negroes, Jews and Indians, with the hundred varieties of Yankees, Westerners, Pennsylvanians, Californians and Southerners, reminds one of a great Babel of a fair, like Nishnin, Novgorod or Leipsic, or of a great Levantine port, like Constantinople and Alexandria, where all languages are heard, all races mingle for a time, and yet amid the variety of every one preserving its own originality. This, then, is another pecu-liarity of Broadway which makes it so different from great European thoroughfares. After sunset, when business has ceased, and the shops are mostly closed, the pleasure atmosphere begins. Immense crowds gather at theaters and other places of amusement and entertainment.

As the evening advances the character of the street assumes a more ominous appearance. Even after the pleasure seekers have returned home, it remains full of stragglers. Strange looking men, and still stranger looking women begin to come from the bye streets and back alleys forming small knots at prominent corners, as if for a campaign. Omnibusses continue to rattle. Policemen and watchmen are on the qui vive. Bearded foreigners and natives, smoking and swearing, haunt the street. Here and there the cry of murder is heard, and then the club of the liceman. For a time all seems quiet again. Broadway at least seems to go to sleep. But no; there is a band of drunken sailors drifting in from some side street. Wild songs shake the air. Here and there a plaintive voice is heard. A poor flower-girl offers a bouquet of faded flowers to one of the drunken band. Or the fire bell calls for engines, and the loungers join in the frolic, and women who pass by chance terrible salutations with the noisy gang. The clock strikes one, Broadway is still awake. It looks like Vesuvius after an eruption. The lava of steeple of Trinity looms up above the surrounding buildings, and the gas lights—those ominous part of the street the air of repose in this morning hour is full of solemnity. But Broad way can not afford to sleep long, and soon after five the busy comedy again begins.

How Gold Lace is Made.

In an interesting description of the method of manufacturing gold lace, an exchange pointedly says that gold lace is not gold lace; it does not deserve this title, for the gold is applied as a surface to silver. It is not even silver lace, for the silver is applied to a foundation of silk. The silken threads for making this material are wound around with gold wire so thickly as to conceal the silk. The making of this gold wire is one of the most singular mechanical operations imaginable. In the first place, the refiner prepares a solid rod of silver about an inch in thickness; he heats this rod, applies upon the surface a coating of gold leaf, burnishes this down, applies another coasing, burnishes this down, and so on other coasing, burnishes this down, and so on until the gold is about one-hundredth part the thickness of the silver. Then the rod is subthickness of the silver. Then the rod is subjected to a train of processes which brings it down to the state of fine wire, and it is passed through holes in a steel plate, lessened step by step in diameter. The gold never deserts the silver, but adheres closely to it, and shares all its mutations. It is one-hundredth part the thickness of the silver at the beginning, and it maintains the same ratio to the end. As to the thinness to which the gold-coated rod of silver can be brought, the limit depends on the delicacy of human skill; but the most remarkable example ever known was brought forward by Dr. Wollaston. This was an example of solid gold wire, entirely free from silver. He procured a small rod of silver, bored a hole through it from end to end, and inserted in this hole the smallest gold wire he could procure. He subjected the silver to the wire-drawing and the subjected the silver to the wire-drawing. process, until he had brought it to the finest at-tainable state, being, in fact, a silver wire as fine as a hair, with a gold wire in its center. To isolate this gold wire, he subjected it to warm nitrous anid, oy which the silver was diss a gold wire one thirty-thousandth of an inch in thickness—perhaps the thingest round wire the hand of man ever produced. But this wire, though, beyond all comparison, finer than any though, beyond all comparison, mer than any employed in manufactures, does not approach, in thinness, the fine film of gold on the surface of silver in gold lace. It has been calculated that the gold on the finest aliver wire for gold lace is not more than one third of one millionth of an inch in thickness that is, not above one-tenth the thickness of ordinary gold leaf.

An effort is to be made to extend the circulation of the Indiana Free Press, a paper printed in the German language in this city.

It is proper that its character should be known, so that Republicans may determine whether or not it be worthy of support. It is principally de voted to the dissemination of the deistical notions of Hielscher, its editor. In politics it is Red Republican of the Marat and Robespierre school—and the advocate of ultra Abolitionism. How far such a paper can advance the cause of true Republicanism, let others decide.

> As regards our candidates for the Supreme Bench, the Sentinel knows very well that no one of them, either Democratic or Republican, can express any opinion beforehand, as any lawyer could seize upon such opinion as evidence against the decisions of the law in question.

So says the "fool HIELSCHER," as the Republi Journal. Yet, this fellow has been around the streets proclaiming, as he intimated, by authority that the Republican Judges would not reverse the decision of the present Court upon the liquor law, expressing an "opinion beforehand."
Whether he was so authorized is a question of veracity between the "fool Hielscher" and the that the Republican Judges would not reverse Republican candidates, which they can settle among themselves. The employment of such an agent is enough to impugn their judgment, sagacity and fitness for the position to which they aspire.

I do this because I have been personally singled out as the object of attack. I am reluctant to depart from the course which, upon almost all occasions, I think propriety dictates should be ob-served, and which I have heretofore pursued, of remaining silent under assaults made upon the discharge of official duty. But when party rancor leads men to deviate so far from the path of fair discussion and criticism, as to attribute unworthy cans call him, in a communication in Monday's personal motives for an official act upon a subject lowered. I am a part and parcel of the free school system. Educationally, those schools made me what I am. And since their establishment here I have cheerfully paid all taxes assessed against me for their support, and have sent to them my children. What is this school question? Simply this and nothing more. The constitution provides that the Legislature shall establish a uniform system of free schools Judge Niblack spoke here on Monday, and will receive a large majority in this county—probably 1,000. I can not hear of one single German Democrat who does not heartily join in the support of the whole ticket; and you know that a large majority of the people of this county are of German birth. Their nominee for the Legislature, Dr. Kemp, is a gentleman of cultivated talent and of pleasing manner.

Dubois County is rapidly improving; most of the land is susceptible of high cultivation, and will, by and by, be densely populated. Mr. O'Conner, formerly of Cannelton, is the parish priest here, and seems to be much beloved. He is a worthy successor of Mr. Kundeck, who did so much to improve this part of the State. REPORTED SEPREMENT FOR THE DAILY STATE SENTINEL Cable Celebration in New York.

NEW YORK, Tuesday, August 31. The following are two odes composed by Mrs. an S. Stephens for the celebration to-morrow: THE CABLE.

AIR-Star-spangled Banner

Let the joy of the world in rich harmony rise,
Let the sword keep its sheath and the cannon its the
Now intellect reigneth from the earth to the skies,
And science links nations that war shall not sund
Where the mermyids still weep and the pearls lie aslee
Thought flashes in fire through the fathomless deep,
Now mind reigneth triumphant where slaughter has Oh God, bless our President, God save the Queen.

When the sunset of yesterday flooded the West,
Our old Mother Country lay far in the distance;
But the lightning has struck, we are close to her breast,
That beautiful land that first gave us existence;
We feel, with a start, the quick pulse of her heart,
And the mother and child are no longer apart;
For mind reigneth triumphant where slaughter has been,
Oh God, save the President, God save the Queen.

The blood that was kindred throbs proudly once more,
And the glow of our joy fills the depths of the ocean;
t thrills through the waves and it sings on the shore,
Till the globe to its poles feels the holy commotion;
et us join in our might and be earnest for light,
There the Saxon blood burns let it strive for the right;
for mind reigns triumpant where always to be a before the or mind reigns triumphant where slaughter has been the God. bless our President, God save the Queen,

ALL HAIL!

AIR-God Save the Queen. All hail across the main, Thought thrills our Cable-chain; Hear, nations, hear! Mind is victorious, Columbia's made glorious, While God watched over us.

Nations, our greeting take,
Hear now our call—
Peace speaks from shore to shore,
Good will be evermore,
While this work we adore,
Praise God for all.

From Washington.

Washington, Tuesday, August 31. Governor McMullen, of Washington Territory, has arrived here. He represents that when he left the Territory, a month ago, the Indians west of Mountains were disposed to be friendly, but fears were entertained that they might be influenced by those residing east of the mountains, who defeated Colonel Steptoe. A vigorous campaign against them, and severe chastisement, will, however, probably have the effect of producing a general peace among the savages, who most sensibly feel the power of the THREE HAUTE, INDIANA.

NORE THAN A YEAR HAVE
the magnificent structures of the Terre Haute Female College been steadily progressing. They are now nearly completed, and will be open for the reception of pupils On Wednesday, the 8th of Sept. next. The site of the College, the buildings, the arrangements for study and comfort, and the Faculty, deserve a passing notice.

Terre Haute, the site of the College, is a beautiful and healthy city, accessible by railroad from all directions, and central to a numerous and appreciating population. It is high as its name imports. From statistics it is clearly shown that for several years past there have been fewer deaths and less sickness here than at any Western city of canal roughstion.

deams and less suckness have than at any western city or equal population.

The buildings will be fitted up in the latest style and with all the modern improvements. They will be warmed by steam and lighted by gas, and furnished with warm and cold baths, and what is rarely to be found in institutions A GYMNASIUM.

Where the body, made healthy and symmetrical by exercise, may support and assist the labors of the mind.

A prominent feature of the College is the provision made for the protection of the health of the pupils. The room are spacious and well ventilated, there being a beautifully two young ladies.

The grounds are ample, comprising eight and a half acres in a pleasant part of the city, about one-third of which is a native forest grove, with winding walks and arbors, forming a most delightful promenade for pupils All the grounds will be tastefully ornamented.

The Faculty will consist of a thoroughly experience and efficient corps of instructors.

The corn did not rust, but produced an enormous crop, two and three ears being common on the stalk. The corn on the old ground "fired," we suppose, for want of "vegetable manure," as "plant food," to keep up the sap, and complete the devolopmental process. Too much water in the soil prevents the sap from drying, and the fiber from maturing; whilst the want of plant food, incident to super-saturaof plant food, incident to super-saturation of the soil, arrests the sap-circulation, by withholding the motive power, leaves the sap stagnant and thus invites fermentation. This will rust any plant not aquatic in its character. It rusted oats this year.

Fortunately for Agriculture, the "remedy" is in the direct line of every man's interest, if there were no such thing as rust. This is it:

1st, Sow nothing but early wheat.

2nd. Sow it early.

3d. Sow it thick on the ground.

We regard these three rules an infallible remedy for nine years out of ten. If in addition to these, the soil is well G.
